

CHARLES CALLEJA

Started his apprenticeship with his uncle at age 10. When he was 16 years old he was encouraged to accept commissioned work.

He later moved on to work with Bellizzi Studio and earned a good experience in wedding photography. Charles also did commercial and studio work at this time as it was an interest he gained during his apprenticeship. Charles later accepted commissioned work from various other photographers too.

In 1990 Charles opened his own studio named Foto-ish in Birkirkara. He later turned full time in 1998 till today. During that period the MIPP was being formed and Charles took a keen interest in its setting up as a founder member.

In 2016 Charles was one of the first students in Malta to graduate with a B.A. Honours in Photography.

Through MIPP, Charles had the opportunity to lecture both locally and abroad on various photographic topics. He now also lectures photography at MCAST at the degree courses.
